Horace Mann High Entertains Parents

Parents of high school students were entertained by assembly program, exhibits, and refreshments at the third annual Horace Mann High School Parents' Night held at the Administration Building last Wednesday evening.

The high school band under the direction of Edgar Quillan, a student at the College, opened the assembly program with a group of musical selections. Robert Hayden, president of the student body, welcomed the guests and Mr. W. H. Burr, county superintendent, gave the response.

Feature presentations were given by the tapping, home economics, and clothing classes. The mixed chorus under the direction of Merrill Ostrus was heard in a selection, and the girls' sextet under the direction of Elizabeth Gardner sang two numbers.

Harold Hall gave a trombone solo, Ralph Tindall addressed the visitors on "Our School," and Mr. Herbert R. Dieterich, principal of the Horace Mann High School, concluded the assembly with a short address.

One-Act Play to See Performance

Assembly Will Show Troubles of Suitor

College students will receive information about the correct and incorrect ways of proposing marriage to the girl of their dreams, when students of the speech department will bring a one-act play on the College stage during the regular weekly assembly next Wednesday morning.

The play, "The Marriage Proposal," by Anthony Chekhov, is farcical comedy with a Russian background. It has been produced under the direction of Godfrey Hochbaum, a student of play-production, and, as the title implies, deals with the best way of proposing marriage.

The cast of three includes Werner Herz as Ivan Ivanovich Lemov who will do the proposing, Margaret Kyle in the role of Natalya Stepanovna, the girl in the case, and Glade Billy as Stepan Stepanovitch Chubukov, the prospective father-in-law.

Start of Short Course Brings Many New Faces

New faces appeared on the campus last Monday morning, when approximately two hundred students registered with the opening of the Short Course.

By now, they have already become a part of the regular College group and are urged to join in the regular social and recreational life on the campus. The short course is intended primarily for teachers in Northwest Missouri, but many others took advantage of the opportunity and registered at the College last Monday.

Short Course enrollees meet each class twice daily and will receive the usual 2.5 hours credit at the close of the Short Course coincident with the dismissal of the regular College classes May 23.

Triple Trio Is Heard in Recital

The women's triple trio presented a recital last night in the College Auditorium. The group was accompanied and directed by Miss Marjorie J. Kerr of the music faculty.

The triple trio was assisted in the evening's program by June Ernst and Thelma Coffman who played a violin obligato, and Miss Belle Ward, a former member of the group who is now teaching at Westboro.

Medical Movies Are Shown Here

Students in the College Biology classes and other interested students witnessed an educational movie on "Syphilis and Tuberculosis" this week in the College auditorium. The picture was brought here by Dr. L. F. Weyrich of the State Board of Health, under the sponsorship of Mr. W. T. Garrett, Biology instructor in the College.

The movie was run in three successive hours, on Monday. About 600 students attended the showings of the picture.

The program will consist of several numbers by the entire choir, and special numbers by the Women's Ensemble and the Varsity Male Quartet.

New Students Wander About in Library Searching for Books

About 200 new students, wandering about and looking for books and magazines, were observed this week by library workers. With the new library, these short course students did not know just where to go to find the information they desired.

Short course students, and other students too, may find all general course books and special reserves in the reserve book room on the first floor. These books may be used only for one-hour periods. They may be obtained by asking at the reserve desk for the book by the author's name or by the title. No call slips are necessary in the reserve room.

The Regulations
Borrowers who wish to check out books from the library should study carefully the following directions:

Go to the table in the card catalog alcove on the second floor and get a call slip which you will find there.

Look in the proper card catalog drawer, for the card of the book you want. Cards are arranged alphabetically, by author, title, and subject.

On the call slip which you have already obtained, copy the call numbers which you will find on the upper left hand corner of the card in the drawer. These numbers should be written on the call slip, on the lines marked "call numbers."

Fill in the rest of the call slip, leaving vacant the last three lines; write legibly.

Present this call slip to the attendant at the charging desk in the second floor hall, who will get the book for you. No students will get the privilege of entering the stack room.

The attendant will stamp the date "date due" slip in the back of the book. You should consult the "date due" slip in order to avoid fines. You may keep the book for two weeks from the date checked out.

If you have any difficulties, consult one of the librarians. They will be glad to help.

Fines will be assessed at the rate of ten cents per day.

The library will be open on week days from 7:30 a. m. to 6 p. m., and 9 a. m. until 5 p. m. with one hour out for lunch. Sunday hours are from 2 to 5 p. m.

Senate Names Committee for Investigation

A special committee to investigate the apportionment of the student activity fund, which is collected at the time of registration, was appointed by the Student Senate this week. The committee is to report their findings to the Senate Tuesday night.

The committee is composed of Ermin Bird, Wilmer Allison, and Kenneth Crawford.

W. A. A. Sponsors Athletic Day on College Grounds

Girls from over Nodaway County trooped to Maryville last Saturday for the annual Play Day sponsored by the Women's Athletic Association at the College gymnasium.

The day opened with an assembly in the College gymnasium. Miss Miriam Waggoner, W. A. sponsor, presented Dr. Margaret Ruth Smith, Dr. Francis R. Anthony, Miss Dorothy Han, and Miss Day Weems to the assembled guests, after which the girls were divided into ten color teams for the play day contests.

The morning was spent in playing relay games, with the winners of each event announced by Miss Waggoner. Coleen Hulatt's red team placed at the top with 21 points, and Mae Eberhart's aqua team placed second with 20 points. Dorothy Triplett's black team won third place.

Folk Dances
In the hour preceding lunch, the girls amused themselves with folk dances. Then at noon, they proceeded to the College park for a picnic lunch, which was followed by more athletic games. Coleen Hulatt's team again carried away top honors with a score of 36 points. Second place went to Mae Eberhart's team with 30 points. Volley-ball and baseball elimination tournaments featured the afternoon's play.

An assembly in the gymnasium followed the afternoon's play, and awards were made by the Play Day chairman, Marian Obermiller. Swimming, tennis, and other games concluded the day's activities.

Bearcats to Meet St. Benedict Team

Announcement was made this week by Athletic Director E. A. Davis that a dual track and field meet would be held on the Maryville field between the Bearcats and the St. Benedict Ravens from Atchison, Kansas. The date for the meet is May 3.

It is not known whether tennis or golf matches will be played but if it is possible for the Kansans to bring teams the matches will be played. With the filling of this open date the track schedule for the 1940 season is complete.

A buffet supper was given by the pledges of Kappa Omicron Phi for the actives preceding their regular meeting last Monday night. The supper was given at the Home Management House.

The decorations were carried out in the graduation theme. The table was centered with "wise owl students" holding diplomas, which formed the Greek Letters of Kappa Omicron Phi. The "wise owls" were given the guests as favors.

Mrs. Anna Young was chairman of the committee in charge of the supper. Other members of the committee were the pledges: Hattie Houpp, president of the pledges, Evelyn Hastings, Hazel Eullinger, Evelyn Marsh, Marceline Wiley, Fern Randall, Eleanor Olney, Betty Stallord, Lois Goltry, Mary Frances Todd and Mary Edna Costigan.

This Changing Campus

There comes a time in the minds of thoughtful students, when social and educational practices change, the desire that in order to live up to certain standards, they must to a certain extent "follow the parade." This is the time when people's ideas change, and people are ready to see these changes carried out.

We plan to present through this paper some ideas, which although they may not be new, they will no doubt meet with some opposition. It has been the policy of this paper, however, and we think we should continue, to stand by the beliefs of our staff, when we have definite assumptions upon which to base the merits of our conclusions.

There are two considerations which we are ready to present, not because we want to cause an uprising of radicalism on this campus, but rather because we feel that at least two practices should not remain as they are.

The first of these considerations is that we believe the student activity fund, collected at the registration date, should be placed in the hands of a student body, preferably the Student Senate, which along with an administrative supervisor, should manage the apportionment. The second consideration is the placing of the management of the student newspaper more completely into the hands of the students, where it rightfully belongs, and where it should not be subject to administrative control but

Records Office Is Sometimes Cupid's Bureau

(ACP)—Last June a dapper young University of Wisconsin alumnus of the Class of 1934, back on the campus for class reunions, walked into the Alumni Records office to inquire as to the present whereabouts of a certain former classmate. She—yes, it was a member of the opposite sex in whom he was interested—had been a pretty nice girl on the campus and he had dated her several times.

Did the office know where she was living? Had she married? The office did and gave him all the vital information. She was not married, it so happened, and was living in a city not too distant from our hero's home.

Not long ago the Records office received a notice of the forthcoming marriage of the pair with due thanks for the "cooperation" in bringing about the match.

Young German Was to Have Told Adventures

A speech by a young man who escaped from Germany, who was to present a first hand talk of his thrilling adventures, was to have been heard by a rural Sunday School class group last Sunday. This was the word received by the Maryville Daily Forum for their church page.

The young speaker was to have been Werner Herz, College freshman, who according to the article, was to talk on the banks of a country stream.

Herz made the talk, he said this week, and "we had a picnic along by the stream."

Shown above is Andrew Woods, dairyman, about to milk one of the Jerseys at the College farm. The machine which he is holding performs the milking operation and leaves Mr. Woods free to do other chores. The milk is consumed by the women at Residence Hall.

Klontz's election follows almost two year's service on the Missouriian, during which time he has served as reporter, feature editor, and now as assistant editor. Besides Klontz, those who attended the conference were, Virgil Elliott, editor, and Jean Martine and Robert Flowers, reporters. Elliott was in charge of a forum discussion Saturday morning at the conference on news editing and make-up.

Dr. McHale Visits; Speaks During Assembly

A. A. U. W. Director Stresses Knowledge Rather Than Skill

"We cannot overemphasize the importance of substance over form in education," Dr. Kathryn McHale, general director of the American Association of University Women, stated in a talk to the students of the College this week.

Addressing the student body during the regular assembly Wednesday, Dr. McHale, formerly a member of the American Council on Education and a member of the board of trustees of Purdue University, stressed the necessity of differentiating between substance and form in education.

The realization of this difference and a consequent stress to be placed upon the elements of a liberal education is one of the standards which the A. A. U. W. applies in extending recognition to colleges. Dr. McHale said, 256 of 700 colleges have been recognized after 58 years of practical experience in the field of education, with thirty institutions coming off the list this year.

A Thorough Background
Among the standards the A. A. U. W. applies to acknowledged institutions are the following. Dr. McHale said. Every graduate must have a speaking, reading, and writing acquaintance with the humanities, physical, biological and social sciences. This background allows baccalaureates to continue their education, whereas with too much stress placed on skill, too many consider the baccalaureate a dead end.

Among the standards of skill the A. A. U. W. requires, Dr. McHale mentioned mastery of English and reading form and the technique of taking examinations. She concluded with an appeal to the teachers of the future to be aware of their importance in correcting the ills of present-day society.

Guest at Lamkins
Dr. McHale's address was preceded by the scripture reading and prayer, given by Dr. Harry G. Dilline, and two songs, sung by the Girl's Triple Trio under the direction of Miss Marian Kerr.

During her stay at Maryville, Dr. McHale was the house guest of Dr. Blanche H. Dow and Miss Olive DeLuce. She was the honor guest at a luncheon given by President and Mrs. Uel W. Lamkin at their home Wednesday afternoon.

ACE Fund Drive Starts Tomorrow

Taxi, Mister? How about a little, Mister? Members of the A. C. E. will assume this inquiring air on the campus, in town and at home next Saturday. The purpose? They are staging the annual campaign to raise funds for the A. C. E.

The women will work all day Saturday in an attempt to make a dollar which will be turned in to the treasurer. Some of the members will press clothes, others will operate a beauty shop at Residence Hall, others will sell candy, and others will go to homes where they expect to something for their folks which will pay the dollar dividend.

Each year the A. C. E. sponsors a similar campaign, although the drive this year is more in earnest than in the past. With thirty-nine members the association hopes to better their fund by at least that many silver dollars.

College students and faculty are urged to give the A. C. E. members plenty of work tomorrow.

Meal Service Class Makes Trip to City

Members of the Meal Service class went to Kansas City last Tuesday, April 16, where they visited the T. M. James Company and saw fine table linens, glassware, china, and silverware. They also visited the houseware department of Emery Bird Thayer.

Miss June Cozine, instructor of the class, accompanied the group, which was made up of Virginia Beeks, Beulah Campbell, Bernice Carr, Mary Edna Costigan, Margaret Dickerson, Dorothy England, Mary Virginia Garner, Mary Louise Hartness, Helen Lee Jones, Marjorie Johnson, Doris Lauber, Irah Miller, Marjorie Perry, Ruth Pfander, Evelyn Potter, Fern Randall, Betty Stallard, Marjorie Surbaugh, Mary Frances Todd, Marie Ward, Marceline Wiley, Ruth Williams, Mary Worley, and Mrs. Anna Young.

Maryville College Takes Lead in Orientation Courses

Freshman orientation courses with the purpose of familiarizing newly-entertaining students from the high schools with College life and of allowing them to gain a clear view of their aims in attending College were introduced at this College in 1928.

They proved so successful that during the next College year, attendance was made compulsory. However, no credit was given before 1932, when one hour of credit was allowed for regular attendance of one hour a week during two quarters.

Similar projects and programs for the orientation of freshman students were introduced at other colleges and universities in the years since then. Last week, the Missouri Student, a newspaper edited and published by the students of the University of Missouri, carried the following article:

"More than half of the students in a small Missouri high school preparing for university work were not ready for the change, said Lakin

Phillips, a graduate student in the school of Education, who has had two years of teaching experience."

"Half of the students who were considering going away to college were on an educational precipice because they were either low in academic ability or else they were uncertain of their abilities and interests," he said.

"You have to gather from their experiences what significant abilities and interests they do possess. This, at least in my experience, cannot be accomplished except by an orientation program of some sort."

Phillips stressed the fact that students entering the high school of only 125 pupils from a country grade school were given orientation by the high school faculty. "The change from high school to college life requires an even greater re-adjustment," he said, "and it is the university's duty to assist the student in his re-adjustment."

Agitation for a course in freshman orientation in the University was begun by campus leaders in January. Representatives of every campus organization met on Feb. 3 to organize the "Freshman Orientation Committee." The group has contacted various faculty members in an effort to sound out faculty opinion on an orientation program.

In a poll conducted by the Missouri Student it was revealed that 90.6 per cent of the faculty members polled were in favor of including an orientation course in the 1940 curriculum.

rather would serve as an instrument of expression for student opinion. We must choose, because of lack of space, to discuss only one of these considerations in this issue, and plan to follow with the second consideration in the next publication.

We of this newspaper are not pioneering in these two considerations. We are discussing here some very serious student problems, about which we have enough information to base our statements, and at the same time we are basing them upon careful thinking.

In regard to the first consideration, we believe in having, shall we say Student Senate participation in the apportionment of the student activity fund, because in the first place we believe this money is paid by the students not precisely as a part of the enrollment expense, but as a fund to provide for special student activities. It should follow logically enough then that the students should exercise, through their self-governmental body, the privilege of knowing how this money is apportioned, and also the privilege of determining at least in part how this money is to be spent.

The administration clearly states that an activity fee is charged to the student, for "An incidental, activity, and book rental fee of $20.00 per term will be charged each student," (General Catalog, 1939-41, page 28). Thus the student pays a certain expense of enrollment, a fee for the use of college textbooks, and besides a certain amount for a fund to provide "activities." These activities include, according to the catalog, one-fourth of the price of a "Towel," subscription to the NORTHWEST MISSOURIAN, a ticket to certain athletic events and other entertainments, hospitalization, and use of a locker.

Now it is understood that there is an activity fee paid by the students for certain entertainments and privileges while enrolled on this campus, and these entertainments and privileges are especially for students, but at the same time we can hardly say students are asked just what kind of entertainments or privileges they would like to have.

In other words, assuming that the activity fee is nearly the same as it has been in the past, there are about twenty thousand and student dollars pouring each year into the student activity fund, and the students are not asked how they would like to have that money used. We are not saying that there is an unjust use of this money; we are saying that this is a special student fund, and students should have a say-so in how it is to be apportioned.

For example, if the students should by majority favor publication of a magazine on this campus, or flooding the athletic grounds for an ice carnival in the winter, or sponsoring a Student Union, we believe that these students should use this money for such purposes. Of course there probably needs to be administrative supervision; but we do not believe there needs to be administrative control.

Now we come to the close of the first of this series of editorials, which takes up the discussion of a serious consideration. In the next publication we will take up the discussion of another problem closely related to this one. The problems on this campus are calling for serious and careful thinking—both in the minds of students and faculty. As a newspaper, we are representing the students, as we believe should be the policy of every college newspaper in a country where freedom of the press is guaranteed.

Bemoan Ye Spring

Spring is a wonderful season, and a happy one too for many people. But for others it is anything but happy. Despite the glorious golden sunlight which greets the jaundiced eye of the student who has seen nothing but snow, rain, mud and more mud all winter, the light of spring thereby lifts him from the gray depths of despondency to the clear, sweet optimism of an awakening world. There are those who view the coming of spring with apprehension, if not downright distrust. Is not spring a season of dark forebodings as well as sweetness and light?

If you do not think so, consider the plight of the poor Senior. He has to face a barrage of examinations before he gets his degree, but that is not all by a long shot. He has to say farewell to his alma mater and all the sweet young things that helped him pass away his Saturday evening, and perhaps an occasional test in Biology. And on top of that he has to find a job—if he can find one. And if he finds one, he has to face another dreadful prospect—a precept which he has hitherto avoided.

Spring brings in new thoughts, new ideas, and some old ones too. And none are newer nor forever older than thoughts of moonlight chapel bells, and the little gray home in the west.

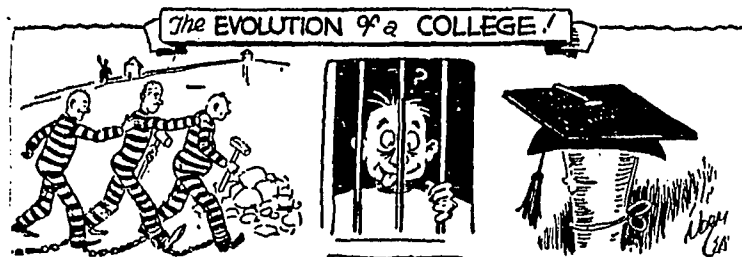

Unhappy mortal—the Senior male. No sooner does he graduate than the bright young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of... what the girl has been thinking about all winter. And he is doomed!

The Gettysburgian of Gettysburg College relates the story of the wrestling coach who patiently tried to explain the fundamentals of the grunt and groan art to his only mildly interested pupils. None seemed to understand, and the light of learning burned low. Finally in sheer desperation he wrote in bold white letters across the gym ceiling: "If you can read this you're in the wrong position."

THE EVOLUTION OF A COLLEGE
ARIZONA STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE (FLAGSTAFF) WAS FIRST A REFORM SCHOOL, THEN AN INSANE ASYLUM, FINALLY A COLLEGE!

The President Says

There has been consideration given to setting aside rooms in the Administration Building for a Student Center. The President recognizes the desirability of a place for students to meet and wait between classes. But speaking frankly to the student group, he hesitates to make plans for such a Center because of the carelessness of some of the student body in keeping the places where they do congregate neat and orderly.

A few days ago he went into the reception room at the Residence Hall. He doubts if any girl would want the living room in her home as disorderly as was the reception room that day. In coming across the campus—one of the most beautiful in the state—one cannot help but notice papers that are thrown around carelessly. The most glaring lack of care appears whenever the NORTHWEST MISSOURIAN is distributed. The steps leading to the auditorium are practically covered with torn or crumpled paper. On Friday of last week there were at least half a dozen papers torn up lying on the steps within ten feet of a waste-basket.

Surely it is not necessary to stop the sale of candy bars, cookies, etc., in the bookstore, but the floor of the second-floor hall is not the place for wrappers. Plenty of receptacles for waste paper are provided.

The President hopes that students will themselves take pride in keeping buildings and campus clean. It is a hard job, but every student can help.

UEL W. LAMKIN, President.

Editor's Note: We join with the President of this College in urging students to take a pride in keeping buildings and the campus clean. We also urge students to do some thinking about this serious problem of just why it is that here on this campus there is not that feeling of cooperation needed before we can have a desire to see the buildings kept clean.

In the Student Union building at Missouri University, working as it does on a cooperative plan, hundreds of students gather for meetings, card or checker games, dancing, and eating. The entire atmosphere of the place is one of friendliness and companionship. Since it is a cooperative enterprise, perhaps this may explain why the "make yourself at home" feeling prevails.

This cooperative spirit is different from that which exists on this campus. We must be honest and admit this. Students on this campus have never been made to feel that cooperative spirit, perhaps because they have had so little to say in their own affairs.

We feel that this problem of throwing papers about, the campus is probably not any more characteristic of our campus than of other colleges or universities. And to do what we can to improve on this condition, we must look behind the scenes and find the causes; just as before we can prevent war, we must prevent the causes for war.

It is true that students here have many privileges. But it is doubtful whether they have had as many privileges as students at Missouri University. Perhaps this working together idea; this idea of common participation, may be a partial explanation why the M. U. Student Union is kept a clean and wholesome place. Last week the new student president said he would favor a Student Union, "if the students wanted it." In a recent survey conducted by a Missouriian reporter, it was found that only one person stated he might not be in favor of a Student Union, and that he would like time to think it over. The majority favored the proposal.

Again, students, the pathway is becoming more and more clear. The signal now, as before, is "GO AHEAD!"

Dictionary Dope: The newest volume of the Dictionary of American English being published by the University of Chicago is handing down to posterity many words and phrases dear to the hearts of slang-minded collegians.

For instance, "flunk" is defined as "complete failure in a course, examination, or an endeavor." "Gas" is unpretentious talk, especially of a political kind.

"Flumadiddle" is also included in the latest volume, which includes words from "filthy" to "gold region." It even includes "gib palace," which is a "grog shop of a pretentious or gaudy appearance."

Smelly story: One recent evening, Prof. Clarence Gaines of St. Lawrence University made his usual right turn at number 20 Pine Street and climbed the steps to his home. As he opened the door he paused to admit what he supposed was the family cat. Shortly afterwards his wife called to him to let the cat in. Although recalling that the animal had already come in, he dutifully opened the door, peered out, and saw the cat waiting at his feet. Thinking he must have been absent-minded, he admitted the cat and dismissed the incident.

But the incident would not be dismissed and presently a very unpleasant odor permeated even the remotest corners of the Gaines home. The first arrival was a skunk, and to add dismay to surprise, although they searched diligently, the animal could not be found.

This is explained Professor Gaines' departure from his customary attire and even the hornrimmed glasses the next morning.

Bearcats Swamp Kirksville in Meet Here 87-49

Green-White Athletes Get Second Triumph in Third Start of Season

Resuming the course of victory after suffering a momentary setback at the hands of the Peru Teachers, Maryville's green-and-white athletes subdued the visiting Kirksville track team 87 to 49 in the second home meet of the season.

With Merrill Ostrus, Melvin Carter, and Wayne Taylor plying the home squad, the Bearcats captured ten out of sixteen events and registered a clean sweep in four, the 880 yard run, the high hurdles, the discus, and the two-mile run.

Although several of their stars were absent, notably Elmer Barton, speedy dash man, who pulled a leg muscle in the Peru meet, and Bill Behnau, javelin thrower, the Maryvillians showed the way all through the meet and after the first few events never left the outcome in doubt.

Ostrus High Scorer

Merrill Ostrus, Bearcat hurdler and jumper, topped the day's scorers with an accumulated total of 13 points, having won the high hurdles, tied for first place in the high jump, and taken second place in the low hurdles. Melvin Carter, Bearcat fieldman, and Wayne Taylor, sensational miler, closely contested his lead, amassing 11 and ten points respectively.

Taylor, Yourek, Baker, and Darr represented Maryville in the mile relay. Kirksville took an early lead and held it until the last 100 yards, when Harry Darr broke through and beat Brumagin, Bulldog sprinter, to the tape.

In the half mile relay, however, the outcome was different. With Kirksville leading all the way, even Willard Burton, Bearcat dash man, could not make up for the difference and was beaten by Lambers, who took scoring honors for the Bulldogs.

The summaries:
100 yard dash—Won by Lambers, Kirksville; Bohmback, Kirksville, second; McLaughlin, Maryville, third, Time 10.2.

440 yard dash—Won by Brumagin, Kirksville; Kirsch, Kirksville, second; Darr, Maryville, third, Time 52.3.

1 mile—Won by Taylor, Maryville; Noblet, Maryville, second; Walters, Kirksville, third, Time 4:38.6.

Pole vault—Won by Clossen, Kirksville; Reno, Maryville, second; Darr, Maryville, third, Height 11 feet 9 inches.

High jump—Tie for first and second between Yourek and Ostrus, Maryville; Houseman, Kirksville, third, Height 5 feet 11 inches.

Two miles—Won by Long, Maryville; Turner, Maryville, second; Shy, Maryville, third, Time 10:08.

Discus—Won by Carter, Maryville, 127 feet 8 1/2 inches; Schottel, Maryville, second, 121 feet; Kruse, Maryville, third, 119 feet.

120 yard low hurdles—Won by McLaughlin, Maryville; Ostrus, Maryville, second; Lambers, Kirksville, third, Time 25 seconds.

E. H. Davis Attends Tennessee College

E. H. Davis, athletic director, left Sunday for Nashville, Tennessee, where he will attend the George Cabody College for teachers. He has been taking graduate work there and at Louisiana State University for the past few years and plans to complete work for his Master's degree in Physical Education at the end of the summer term.

Mrs. Davis remained in Maryville but will join him at the beginning of the summer quarter.

I once had a class mate named Guesser
Whose knowledge got lesser and lesser.
It at last grew so small
He knew nothing at all.
And now he's a College professor.

Blue-Eyed Queens Have 5 to 1 Chance at Drake

Des Moines, Iowa.—(ACP)—Drake Relays queen candidates with blue eyes will have a 5-1 chance of becoming the 1940 winner—that is, if the selections of the judges in the past six years are any criterion. Of the six Relays queens selected in former years to be queen of the relays sponsored by Drake University only one has had brown eyes. She was Nona Kenneaster of Fresno State college, Fresno, California, queen in 1935.

Four of the six queens have had brown hair, however. Martha Hall of Northwestern, the first Relays queen in 1934, and Marjory Zechel of Butler University, 1938, are the only blondes to reign.

Seniors are usually chosen, but their choice of majors doesn't seem to matter. Majors range from psychology to music.

Not only are tall men desirable, so also are tall Relays queens. All six of the previous queens have been tall. The shortest one was 5 feet 5 inches, while the tallest was 5 feet 7 inches.

From Texas to California, the queens have come, but Northwestern has the distinction of having two queens. Others have hailed from Butler University and the University of Missouri.

Relays queens combine beauty with brains, for of the last three queens—two of them have been members of Phi Beta Kappa.

Warrensburg Here Today

Mules Invade Bearcat Track

The Bearcats play host to the Warrensburg Mules this afternoon on the local cinders in their fourth dual meet of the current season. The Mules will present a well-balanced team and should offer the Bearcats some stiff competition. In strength the local boys have the edge, getting a close second in the State indoor while Warrensburg was tying with Springfield for fourth.

Coach Whitman will bring several veterans along with his squad. Among these are: Ed Linehan, who recently tossed the javelin a "mere" 178 feet; Myers, Golladay, and Crouse in the dashes, Gibson in the hurdles, Frye in the distance runs, and Conyers in the weights. A new man, Maurice Johns, will be doing the Mule vaulting.

The Bearcats will be without the services of Barton, chief among the local dash men. Otherwise the locals will be in top condition. Long who won the State indoor two-mile race will be matching strides with Frye. Ostrus and McLaughlin have better times in the hurdle races and should be counted on for points. Wayne Taylor should have little trouble in the half but Dickson will be close to him in the mile.

The meet will have added color as the Mules are bringing along their tennis and golf teams. The strong combination of Perry and Miller will match rackets with Schultz and Hutcherson.

Bearcat Claws... ..by ken tebow

Although they were missed, the Bearcats evidently did not need the help of Bill Behnau or Elmer Barton last Friday as they mowed the Kirksville Bulldogs down to the tune of 87 to 49 in the second home meet for the Bearcats this season.

Several new names were added to the scoring list for the Bearcats in this last meet. Some were freshmen and others had been seen in action for the College on various other occasions. Boyd Watson, lanky freshman, took a second in the 120 high hurdles. Ivan Schottel, ace blocking back for the Bearcat grid machine, nabbed off a second in the discus throw with a heave of 121 feet.

Dale Hackett, Bearcat basketball star, turned in a leap of 20 feet 9 inches for a third in the broad out door meet of the season 81 to 55.

Commerce Group Tours Business Places of Omaha

Leaving Maryville at 5 o'clock Monday morning, April 22, a group of Pi Omega Pi members and other Commerce students started to Omaha, Neb.

The Omaha Chamber of Commerce has planned a tour of the main points of interests in the city for the group. The tour included a visit to the Omaha World Herald Building, a large creamery, and the Omaha Grain Exchange where the group was allowed to go onto the trading floor and the bidding and selling were explained.

The next stop was the Union Pacific Historical Museum where the group saw an exhibit which presented an authentic record of the settling of the West.

At the Joslyn Memorial the group saw an exhibition of twentieth century banned German art. Here it was explained that the memorial is built almost entirely of thirty-eight different kinds of marble from all over the world.

Go to Boy's Town.
The group then went to Boy's Town, Neb., where they were taken on a tour of the buildings and grounds.

Members of Pi Omega Pi who made the trip were: Jean Dykes, Mary Frances Bayrock, J. Glaze Baker, Hope Wray, Lois Oursler, Dorothy Woodburn, Lucille Jeffrey, Stanley Ross, Max Kirkbride, Beulah Wilkinson, W. G. Cummins, Eleanor Hartness, Helen Johnson. JUNIOR CLASS DUES

Last week the members of the Junior Class were reminded that it is time to pay their Junior Class dues. However, the bulk of the money is still uncollected.

One of the outstanding traditions of the campus is the Junior-Senior Prom which is given by the Junior Class for the Senior Class. In previous years the financial obligation for each member of the Junior Class was $1. This year because of the size of the class the amount has been reduced to seventy-five cents. It is imperative that all of the money be collected.

This is an obligation which every member of the class must meet regardless of his attendance at the dance. The class dues, besides financing the dance, pay for the page in the Tower. There are individuals at present soliciting this money from members of the class, and there will be a table in the hall during the next week where the seventy-five cents can be paid. The cooperation of every member is needed, so please pay your dues.

Miss DeLuce Is Back from Ohio Art Conference

Faculty Member Has Charge of College Section at Meeting

Miss Olive S. DeLuce, of the fine arts department of the College, was in Cincinnati, Ohio, last Wednesday through Saturday, where she attended a meeting of the Western Arts Association.

The Western Arts Association has members in about thirty states and there was a large delegation present. While there Miss DeLuce met many Cincinnati artists, and also art directors from various sections of the United States.

Miss DeLuce had charge of the program in the university and college section of the meeting. Her program was commented upon by everyone as one of the finest that had ever been given at a meeting of the Association.

Some of the art leaders whom Miss DeLuce met at the meeting, and who took part in the program were Philip Robert Adams, Director of the Columbus Gallery of Art; Ernest Bruce Haswell, Cincinnati sculptor; Myer Abel, Cincinnati painter; Russell Wright, a designer of Steubenville, Ohio; Esther Sills, of the Cleveland Museum of Art; Robertson, artist and author of Colorado Springs; Ray Faulkner, head of the art department of Columbia University; McGowan, of Northwestern; Dutch, of George Peabody College; Clark, of the Carnegie Foundation; and Hanson, of Purdue.

These art leaders were unanimous in their believing that art is an integral part of life and therefore should be an integral part of the school program, both public and private. The college art program which Miss DeLuce has adopted in the College here was commented upon by everyone as one of the finest in the Association.

One of the most interesting tendencies in art in the college as discussed at this meeting was, the project in the Black Mountain College in California. All activities in this college center around the field of the creative arts.

Miss DeLuce states that this meeting was extremely inspiring and very interesting. She found it helpful to mingle with the heads of art departments of other colleges and get their ideas and methods.

Miss DeLuce flew both to and from this meeting.

Intercollege Bridge Tourney to Be Held

New York City—Representatives of 12 eastern universities and colleges, selected by campus elimination meets, will enter the first annual Intercollege Bridge championship at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel here this week-end.

The tournament, which will be played in two sessions, Friday evening and Saturday afternoon, is an invitation event and is sponsored by a committee of graduates from the various colleges.

(Editor's Note: Students of this College have an opportunity this summer to join with other students from colleges belonging to the National Student Federation of America in a tour of Old Mexico. This story explains how this tour is to be conducted.)

An unusually interesting itinerary has now been completed for the tour for students which NSFA is sponsoring to Mexico this summer, and several applications have already been received. Under the leadership of Elizabeth Robertson of Texas State College for Women, the group is scheduled to sail July 3 on the S. S. Algonquin of the Clyde-Mallory Line for a six-day cruise across the Gulf of Mexico to Galveston, where the party will begin a bus trip to San Antonio and from there on into Mexico.

After several weeks of extensive travel through Mexico, the party will embark at Galveston on August 4 for the return journey.

Collegians High as Church-Goers

By Student Opinion Surveys Austin, Texas, April 25—As church-goers, American college students give themselves a good grade. A national poll of the Student Opinion Surveys of America just completed reveals:

1. Only one-eighth declare they never attend church; forty per cent say they go regularly.
2. A majority state they go to church more often or at least about the same as they did before they came to college.

The poll, taken by personal interviews from coast to coast, provides the first complete answer to the significant question often asked: "Do college students lose some of their religiousness when they leave home?" A good number, 46 per cent, admit they attend services less often than they did before they arrived on the campus.

What may be surprising to some is that 15 per cent of the students say they are now going to church more often than when they were home.

As was to be expected, Catholics appear in the results as the least apt to change their habits on religion upon leaving their homes, and they take honors for regular church-going.

Tabulations of church-attendance habits for the entire college and university enrollment of the nation are given below. It should be considered that Jewish church services often conflict with campus social life and scholastic schedules, thus the lower attendance shown than for Gentiles:

This Way

1. Is it in bad taste to wipe one's silver on the napkin?

This is a very bad habit to acquire and should be discouraged. It is neither flattering to your host or hostess nor to the restaurant. It indicates that he or she has taken you to a place that supplies silverware of doubtful cleanliness.

2. Is it correct to pick up a knife or fork that has been dropped?

When a knife or fork is dropped on the floor don't pick it up. You should not place it on the tablecloth and you certainly do not want to wipe it off and use it so just let it lay for the waiter to pick up and let him bring you another.

3. Is it correct to interrupt a conversation in order to make an introduction?

You should never interrupt a conversation to make an introduction. Guests should provide the opportunity by stopping conversation for the introduction to be made or you just wait until you see fit.

Smith and Vassar Co-eds Prefer 'Heroes Dead' to 'Cowards Alive'

(The Missourian ACP Service)

Through some diligent investigations by Williams College students, a few salient facts have been discovered concerning the attitude of Smith and Vassar girls. The Smith lassies recently queried on the question, "If it were a matter of choice, would you rather have your husband imprisoned for conscientious objection or killed in Europe?"

Returned a verdict in favor of the latter alternative. Evidently possessing much of the Madame Defarge in their cold-blooded little hearts, the young ladies felt that a "hero dead" would be preferable to a "coward alive." Of course, the traditional Smith feeling that "you can always get another" may have in part prompted this display of pseudo-self-sacrifice on the altar of their country, but one is more inclined to credit it to their self-styled "dashing love of adventure."

Vassar, on the other hand, offers an understanding heart to the youth who refuses to fight in a senseless combat. The lad who expects to be a conscientious objector in the event that the United States is drawn into foreign entanglements had best begin some weekend prospecting tours to Poughkeepsie, for the adopted daughters of Matthew Vassar would prefer a husband in irons to a husband entombed, any husband being better than no husband.

Consequently, the lover of the home and fireside, who has no illusions about the glory of war, will find a more sympathetic companion at Poughkeepsie than he can hope to find by currying the favor of some damsel at Northampton.

College Students Offered 4 Weeks Tour into Old Mexico This Summer

(Editor's Note: Students of this College have an opportunity this summer to join with other students from colleges belonging to the National Student Federation of America in a tour of Old Mexico. This story explains how this tour is to be conducted.)

An unusually interesting itinerary has now been completed for the tour for students which NSFA is sponsoring to Mexico this summer, and several applications have already been received. Under the leadership of Elizabeth Robertson of Texas State College for Women, the group is scheduled to sail July 3 on the S. S. Algonquin of the Clyde-Mallory Line for a six-day cruise across the Gulf of Mexico to Galveston, where the party will begin a bus trip to San Antonio and from there on into Mexico.

After several weeks of extensive travel through Mexico, the party will embark at Galveston on August 4 for the return journey.

Modern Mexico will be seen in Mexico City, commercial Mexico will be touched at Monterrey, Catholic Mexico at Guadalupe, ancient Mexico in Oaxaca, and revolutionary Mexico in the capital. On every hand the party will find survivals of an old civilization, thinly covered in spots by the machine age—the forms of life and activities of centuries ago will be found in the same village where people will be working the land—collectively—along modern agricultural lines. Student contacts will also be afforded at picnics, parties in Mexican homes, and dances.

During the stay in Mexico City there will be leisure time for enjoying all the attractions of a civilized metropolis—for theatres, concerts and the movies.

A good delegation is expected to take this trip and those who are interested in joining should apply immediately to NSFA. Copies of the detailed itinerary are available at the Travel Department of the National Student Federation of America, 1410 H Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

Dropsie College, Philadelphia, has 24 students, seven faculty members.

University Man Attacks Liberal Arts Colleges

Chicago Professor Condemns Failure in Realizing Purposes

Cambridge, Mass.—(ACP)—Colleges attached to large universities are falling almost completely to give their students a liberal education. Mortimer J. Adler, professor at the University of Chicago, told a meeting of the Student Council's Committee on Liberal Education at Harvard University recently.

Adler did not except Chicago from his radical criticism of the university-college system, and stated that almost everything for which Chicago is famous, including the survey course system, was an educational failure.

His attack on the present set-up hit mainly the narrow and unreal division of subjects into departments, the bad effects of close relations between the post-graduate and undergraduate sections on the liberal arts college, and the "research" criterion for academic promotion. The necessity of early and frequent scholarly publication was making the supposed teacher a mere specialist, he said.

A Common Content
Claiming that students who finish the "introductory general" courses at Chicago have at best a "superficial indoctrination" in courses contents, Adler remarked that the five courses advocated by the Student Council to give a "common content" to education at Harvard would turn into reading courses, similar to the St. John's "great books" plan, if the ideals back of them were logically followed out. He sees the departmental system as the chief obstacle to their success.

Adler and Chicago's President Robert M. Hutchins both believe strongly in the St. John's plan of liberal arts college education. This provides for training in the complicated arts of reading and writing by a chronological study of the so-called "100 great books" of the Western world, with laboratory and tutorial work but almost no lectures. However, both Adler and Hutchins believe that not more than 60 of these books can be read in their meaning of the word read, in a four-year course of study.

Survey Opinion Favors Retention of Part of Present New Deal Work

By Student Opinion Surveys
Austin, Texas, April 11—Whether the Democrats or the Republicans win the elections in November, almost all college students believe that there are parts of the New Deal that should be continued.

The Civil Conservation Corps, the National Youth Administration, the Works Progress Administration, and social security are the most popular agencies among collegians, it is pointed out by the latest national sampling conducted by the Student Opinion Surveys of America.

College students of today will to a great extent fill the positions of importance and influence when they become established in the nation. Most of America's molders of public opinion will be college-trained men and women. The surveys, then, may be pointing to new trends in U. S. affairs that may come to full development in a decade or two.

A chance for youth, jobs for the unemployed, security for the unfortunate—Uncle Sam as the social guardian—that is where college approval falls greatest.

Personal interviewers asked this question of a sampling of all collegians in the country: "Regardless of which party wins the elections in November, what parts of the New Deal do you think should be continued?"

Of the total number of times that different agencies were named:

C. C. C. was mentioned	18%
W. P. A. was mentioned	15
N. Y. A. was mentioned	15
Social security	7
All others	44
Didn't know	9

Only very few believe that the entire New Deal program should be discarded. Most students mentioned several agencies; approval by others covered entire fields, such as protection of natural resources, attempts to solve unemployment, etc. Opinion in different sections of the country is remarkably even, the survey shows, and approval comes from students of both Republican and Democrat leanings.

Pittsburg U. Students Should Wear Insulators

Pittsburgh, Pa. — (ACP) — While thousands of students sit quietly in their classes in the University of Pittsburgh's Cathedral of Learning, lightning may be shivering the spire of the Cathedral, for it has been struck more than any other building in the university district, declares H. E. Dyche, professor and head of the department of electrical engineering.

A bolt of lightning which attained the crest magnitude of 21,000 amperes, enough electricity to supply four and a half Cathedrals at one time, hit the main University building.

Three direct contacts have been observed. The first occurred early last spring, when 16,000 amperes shot through the Cathedral. A 3,000-volt disturber was shattered by the stroke. The second "unidirectional surge" was confirmed on June 10 and reached 21,000 amperes. The last recorded hit came sometime between October 21 and 25, 1939.

Peace Conference Debates New Order

(By The NSFA)
On the campus at the University of Colorado the Rocky Mountain Peace Conference met on April 5th and 6th, bringing together about 100 delegates from the Rocky Mountain Region. Sponsored by the local campus peace council, most of the conference was devoted to the discussion of America's role in the present European war and the place for student activity in working for peace.

Five commissions brought in reports and resolutions on the following topics: "The European War," "The Far East," "American Democracy," "War and Economic Security," and "War and Pan-American Security." Statements by officers of the conference indicated that there was to be a serious attempt to work out a constructive peace program rather than a "hodge-podge of resolutions."

Students See U. S. on Bicycles

By the NSFA News Service
(Special to the Northwest Missourian)

Now in its fifth year of organization the American Youth Hostels, Inc., with headquarters at Northfield, Massachusetts, is rapidly extending its facilities across the country. In nine different regions, hostel loops are sufficiently complete for students to travel by cycle, foot, horseback, or boat and see intimately the most picturesque countryside of their land.

At present hostel regions include such widely diversified places as the Green and White Mountains of Vermont and New Hampshire, the Connecticut River Valley of the New England states, the Berkshires, down western Massachusetts to New York, a salt water loop through Rhode Island, and the Appalachian trails of Pennsylvania in the east. Directed southward are sets of hostels along the Rhododendron trail in West Virginia and through North Carolina's Smokies. Following the Great Lakes in a youth hostel circuit are chartered facilities in Ohio, Michigan, Illinois, and Wisconsin. Other midwestern states sponsoring chains of hostels are Indiana, Iowa, and Missouri. On the west coast hostel activity has centered around San Francisco Bay, Washington's Puget Sound, and the Olympic Peninsula region.

Throughout the United States are 200 places for wanderers to stop. Like hostellers in the twenty other member countries of the International Association of Youth Hostels, American wanderers always travel under their own power. Bicycling is the most popular of the slower methods of transportation, with hiking considered by some out-of-door enthusiasts the only true way of seeing the land. A small but healthy minority of hostellers paddle canoes or flatboats along water routes. And others ride horseback from one farm to another along secondary roads and wooded trails. American youth homes are located at distances of fifteen to twenty miles so that it is possible to travel in this wise without tiring.

Sponsored by the travel Department of the American Youth Hostels are fifteen group trips that make it possible to follow youth hostels across the continent and throughout this hemisphere. This summer, for the fourth consecutive year, the Rolling Youth Hostel will help carry hostellers and their bikes over all the youth hostelling regions in the United States. Fitted up with regular bunks, washrooms, and kitchen facilities, and used as a central recreation room, this colonist's car is attached to trains anywhere along the trail and rolled over the longer stretches of countryside. Serving as home base for the hostellers who investigate scenic areas on foot or by bike, the Rolling Hostel is sidetracked at various places until the group is ready to re-emerge. Over nine thousand miles of territory the railroad transports bikes, and bikers; the remaining one thousand miles overland are penetrated by the hardy young wanderers.

By far the largest number of hostellers are still the groups who map their own trips and follow their own whims. Interested students who would like to find out more about hostels should write to the national headquarters, American Youth Hostels, Inc., Northfield, Massachusetts.

Two Become Actives at Initiation

Pi Omega Pi Gives Formal Banquet in Honor of Pledges

Initiation for new pledges and actives followed by a formal banquet in their honor was given by members of Beta chapter of Pi Omega Pi, national honorary commercial fraternity Wednesday evening, April 24. The active initiation, which was held in Social Hall, was taken by Marjorie Stone and Arlene Campbell, and Wilbur Osburn took the pledge initiation.

"Sailing" was the theme of the banquet which was held at the Linville Hotel. In addition to the new actives and pledges, Miss Minnie B. James, sponsor of Pi Omega Pi; Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Surry, and Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Dorn were honor guests.

Treasure chests, in which there were small gold bags containing nuts, formed the centerpiece of the tables. Anchors attached individually to the gold bags in the chests were used as place cards.

As toastmistress, Mary Frances Barrock, president of Pi Omega Pi, served as captain of the ship for the evening. Acting officer of the ship, Max Kirkbride, who is vice-president of Pi Omega Pi, welcomed the new actives, and first mate Marjorie Stone gave the response to this welcome. A piano solo was given by Jean Dykes who is secretary of the organization. Responding with a quick, "Aye, Aye, Sir," to the captain's command, second mate Eleanor Harness welcomed the new actives, Wilbur Osburn and Mary Virginia Beck, as new crew members. Mr. Osburn gave the response to this welcome.

Durwood Maxted, who was president of Pi Omega Pi last year, spoke briefly to the group and gave a farewell to this year's senior members of the ship's crew.

As the ship sailed into the distance the banquet came to a close with the singing of the Pi Omega Pi song.

The committee which made the arrangements for the banquet consisted of Hope Wray, chairman; Mary Louise Stelter, Laura Margaret Davis, and Andy Zemles.

C. J. (Pat) King, a graduate of the College in 1931, who teaches in the high school at Hot Springs, New Mexico, directed a student group in the "Polies of 1940". The student program presented the World's Fair in review and featured musical numbers and dance numbers.

Mr. King was assisted by Mrs. King, who was formerly Gladys Storey, in producing the program.
